Gary Martosella joined St. Clair CPAs, P.C. in 2007. As a manager in the firm's Tax department, Gary draws on two decades of experience in accounting and all aspects of federal, state, and local tax returns to supervise the preparation and review of tax returns for various client entities.

In addition to filing tax returns, clients trust Gary for ongoing compliance and year-end tax planning. Specializing in the manufacturing, retail, construction, and health care industries, Gary's tax expertise ranges from corporations, S-corporations, partnerships, and not-for-profit organizations to trusts, estates, and employer provided benefit plans. And because Gary works closely with the Internal Revenue Service and state and local governments, he is highly skilled in negotiating with these agencies on behalf of clients during audits, collections, and other tax-related matters.

Gary's commitment to excellent client service extends to even the smallest details. Monitoring technical and legislative changes to tax codes for every level of taxing authority, Gary provides valuable support to clients as well as other departments within the firm. Financial officers appreciate Gary's technical understanding, while his guidance in tax planning helps companies maximize their financial position. His clients may also enjoy access to insurance, investment, group benefits, and retirement planning services through the firm's affiliate, St. Clair CPA Solutions.

Gary earned his bachelor's of science degree in accounting from Philadelphia University. He resides with his family in Northeast Philadelphia.
